From The Dean

Let us be Overwhelming

As we come to the end of a very trying year, the most common question that seems to be circulating is whether we are overwhelmed by it all. Certainly, in a world of COVID, and political fighting, and a COVID impacted economy, we have had much to be overwhelmed by. In considering our current state of affairs, in contrast to the season we are now entering, I was reminded that there is a difference in the church between being overwhelmed and distracted vs. being overwhelming and uplifting. Let me explain.

C.S. Lewis has contributed a great deal to the widespread understanding of what it means to be a Christian in the world today. Certainly, some of his writings require a slow read, but in them there always seems to be wonderful nuggets of wisdom and clarity for us to take hold of and apply to our lives. One of these is his description of what we seek in our lives and how we are so easily pleased, or maybe, conversely, too easily distracted.

In his book The Weight of Glory he wrote this: "It would seem that Our Lord finds our desires not too strong, but too weak. We are half-hearted creatures, fooling about with drink and sex and ambition when infinite joy is offered us, like a child who wants to go on making mud pies in a slum because he cannot imagine what is meant by the offer of a holiday at the sea. We are far too easily pleased."

We are entering into a season of preparation for a profound joy that surpasses anything else that might try to be a substitute for it, or a distraction from it. It is a joy that can uplift lives, mend relationships, defeat fear, and transform our world.

As we move into our season of Advent, I put to us two questions. The first is, "Are we, indeed, too easily pleased?" What is on the top of our lists for this coming Christmas? What is it that, if you could

CHRISTIAN FORMATION

During the Season of Advent, the Church gently prods us to examine our heart of hearts, and it attempts to move us toward personal faith renewal and revival. The few weeks before Advent begins, our Sunday scripture readings remind us that Jesus is coming again, in judgment, with the message that the End is near.

With that in mind, Advent introduces John the Baptizer, with the same message; thus the call to repentance comes full-circle. Our frustration with the season is that the commercialism of Christmas-to-come runs roughshod over the Church's Advent message to slow down. We find ourselves in a kind of tension that is creative, at best, and exhausting, at worst. This confuses our children, as well as us adults.

Let it be! --Advent, that is. The season of patiently waiting is no time for an end-run! Christmas will get here, soon enough, and then we will enjoy twelve whole days of it: it's not Christmas 'til it's Christmas! (Besides, that's when the sales are greatest!) So please help your family to really enjoy Advent as a time for us to get priorities straight, in light of God's greatest Gift to us. How?

Introduce your children to wonder. If they're used to Godly Play, they know how to wonder. Come up with questions for everyone to ponder and then to talk about. Sit with Mary and Joseph. Meditate on the gift of Messiah. What does he mean to you and to your family? It is a time for us to get ready for Jesus to be re-born in our hearts, even as we prepare to celebrate his humble birth in that stable so long ago.

How you go about it will be up to you as part of your family's spiritual journey. You are equipped with the tools, and your family's traditions may well serve as little liturgies that draw you to Christ. Slow down, be intentional, and enjoy this time together!

Observing a holy Advent can be an antidote to the frustration of a con-fusing (meaning both, joined together, as well as crazy-busy). While I can't suggest that your family wait until Christmas Eve to put up the Christmas tree, as our grandparents did so many years ago, we can encourage our children to walk through Advent, with Mary and Joseph, and with the Church down through the ages.

Then intentional about celebrating the real meaning of the Christ-Mass season on the eve of the First Day of Christmas, stretching it out the whole twelve days, until the Epiphany, as the Church still does. So ignore your neighbors as they throw their dried-out tree onto the curb on the 26th (that they put up Thanksgiving weekend). It's not Christmas 'til it's Christmas! Then — let the celebration begin!

Advent (and Christmas) blessings,

Glen +

By the way, if you'd like a copy of my little children's Advent book, entitled, It's not Christmas 'til it's Christmas, just stop by Cathedral office for one!

Wonder-full Walks

What a fine time we've had on our first walks together. Gratitude for those who have been part of this exercise of body prayer.

Thank you to those who completed our survey re: popular times and settings for walks. The most popular were Saturday morning and mid-week midday, so we'll stick to those for now.

Because weather is unpredictable—the "scheduled" calendar may change. I'll send an email/text blast a day or two before to let folks know if it's "on" or "off." Or check our FB page.

If you completed the survey or have been on one of our walks, I have your contact info. Otherwise, please email/text me at robin.biffle@gmail.com or 208-310-0895 and I'll include you.

Let's tentatively plan these—each is flat with varied distance options and beautiful view:

Saturday, December 5 at 9:30 am.
LeGrande Cannon Blvd. Meet at 1400 LeGrande Cannon Blvd.—entrance on Henderson—last house on the right going up, where Henderson "T's" into LeGrande. Driveway, alley, or on-street parking depending on conditions. Bathroom available before and/or after.

Wednesday, December 9 at 12:15 pm.
Ten-mile Creek Park. Parking/entrance at 1505 Williams St., near Fort Harrison. Bathroom available. Info at <https://pricklypearlt.org/trails/tenmile-creek-park-trail-map/>.

Look for a text/email a couple of days before.

We hope you can join us to praise God in our bodies, praise God in creation.

only find a way to obtain it, would make this Christmas the best Christmas ever? Are we seeking mud pies, or are we dreaming of, and searching for, something so far beyond the door buster specials and the last-minute sales that it becomes hard to even imagine anything better? The second question is this: "Will we allow anything to stand between us and the true gift that we will prepare for in the coming weeks?"

This Advent in the church, I encourage us to prepare for a holiday at the sea. Even with the necessary and appropriate adjustments that must be made in this time, let us seek a joy that is beyond our making, and above any threat or inconvenience of a virus.

Isaiah encourages us to look ahead and says, "Shout, and sing out in joy, for great in your midst is the Holy One of Israel!" Let us prepare to receive the Good News as the shepherds did when the angels from heaven told them, "Fear not, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy that will be for all people." We should not settle for, or succumb to, anything less.

When the world looks to the church as we approach Christmas this year, especially this year, let our message be that which overwhelms all else with joy. Let us light up the world with the Love of Christ. Let us fill our church with song and worship, even if that ends up being done virtually. Let us share with others the overwhelming gift that we have embraced at St. Peter's Cathedral in Helena, MT. As we end 2020, and prepare to embrace a brand new year with the promise of the coming of our Savior, let us invite our family, friends, neighbors, and the entire world to a holiday at the sea, always remembering that even when fearful storms arise, Christ has come, and is coming again, to bring peace and joy for all who will receive it.

Advent and Christmas blessings to one and all!!

Camp Marshall

Online Connections:

We have been staying together via small group zoom meetings. We spend time sharing, time in scripture and a bit of time in prayer for each group. This is an easy way to connect and to support one another in our faith.

To find links for our online meetings go to the camps home page and follow the link for online meeting calendars: Current list of small groups include:

Elementary, Jr. High/High School, Young Adult and a parent support group. We are looking to make some changes / updates soon. So keep an eye out for our camp newsletter and or facebook announcements.

Financial Support:

Camp has had a difficult year with adjusting to lost income. If you can make a gift of any amount it would be a great blessing. Currently we anticipate a shortfall of approximately 15,000.00. While we are working hard to earn new income by renting to families and looking for ways to cut expenses you can help by making a financial gift to the operating budget of Camp Marshall. Your support is greatly appreciated.

Christmas Services

...may look a little different this year. We are hoping and planning for in-person, live services; however, as you know, this depends entirely on the numbers of Covid-19 cases in our community. Regardless of whether we are able to offer live, in-person worship, we will still have two Christmas Eve services:

4:00 pm Family service
We may be featuring last year's Christmas pageant (video)

9:30 pm Christmas Carol sing

10:00 pm Candlelight Christmas Service

Christmas Day:

9:00 am Lessons & Carols followed by Eucharist – Casual Service – come in your jammies and slippers

Did you know?

- ♦ Sermons (both print and audio) are posted to the website weekly. If you miss a Sunday, you can catch up there!
- ♦ Hometouch—we mail out a print copy of the Sunday sermon, Happenings, and a weekly activity and scripture reading to people who can't get to church every week. This work is done by wonderful volunteers—Marg Crennen and Darien Scott.
- ♦ News and Notes—is a regular email (we try for weekly) with events of the coming week(s). If you don't get one and would like to, please contact Donna at admin@spchelena.org.

Music Notes

Dick Brown, Choir Director

This is quite possibly the most personal thing I've ever written about my faith, my music and my optimism for the future.

Like many of you, Billie and I are sitting in our house under quarantine for a while because of COVID. This is particularly difficult for me being a very social person and loving the great outdoors and people of Montana.

I think that we have all been forced to realize that we are on a different path than we thought we would be on just 10 months ago.

I know that I have been taking you on a journey of the history of the organ and its importance to the development of liturgy in the Western Church. Now how do these two things relate? Please hang in with me.

When we moved to Helena about 6 years ago, I had just been diagnosed with Parkinsons Disease, and thought my wonderful career as a cellist/conductor/teacher was through. Then, the along came the Cathedral of St Peter's!

Just as felt like I was starting to build an acceptable music program, along came the plague. I was forced to rethink every week about what we could do and remain safe.

On a particularly pensive day I happened to be reading a new biography of JS Bach and began to read the terms of his contract with the city of Leipzig. Unbelievable what they required from possibly the greatest musician of all time. He withstood incredible hardships to create some of the greatest music ever written. Very little known during his lifetime, and only appreciated from the mid 19th century on, thanks to Mendelssohn. Only for the Glory of God and not for his own glory, he took everything that had gone before and elevated it. For this, the full development of the organ made it all possible.

As a professional musician, I will always look to him for perfection. And this from a man who went through so many hardships but maintained his unwavering faith in God. How does this relate to me?

Perseverance? Hope? Faith? All of the above? I don't know for sure but that God is with me and has always been.

What am I doing right now at midnight? I have 2 cats on my lap asleep, listening to the Bach Mass in b minor, not fearing tomorrow. Thanks be to God, St. Peter's Cathedral, the people of Montana, JS Bach, Ann Swisher, Billie and to the cats who seem to always know what I need.

Bishop's Corner

The Rt. Rev. Marty Stebbins

Christmas is a joyous time of year. So joyous in our modern era that we forget that Advent is a penitential season for the church. It is not penitential like Lent where we remember that we are "but dust and to dust we shall return". Advent is more like that final month of pregnancy. In Mary and Joseph's time that final month is filled with a mix of joy and fear. Joseph loved Mary and also listened to God. He knew that his young wife was bearing a child of God, but I would not be surprised if he worried about Mary's safety. Childbirth was risky business; it was one of the top causes of mortality for women, especially those bearing their first child. The birth of a first child is usually a cause of celebration, but I would bet there were all sorts of rumors about Joseph and Mary and this pregnancy. And then there was the challenge of traveling in that last month, away from family it appears. Normally a first-time mother would have the women of the family surrounding her to help insure a safe birthing. It was going to be just Joseph and Mary. No room in the inn, no family to bunk with and only an animal stable to find shelter. Not the cleanest of environment. What kept Joseph and Mary from crying out in despair and running back home for safety? It was their trust in God. It was their obedience to God. Both listened to the angels' words and trusted in them. It would seem all was lost, and everything was changed, but they trusted in God. Everything did change for them, for within two years they would be fleeing to Egypt to escape Herod's wrath.

Christmas is such a joyous time of year. But this year, "Will we even have Christmas?!" Advent is a penitential season. It is a season of preparation. The baby's room needs to be finished. But babies come when they will, room finished or not, parents prepared or not! This year, we do not have to worry about Herod's wrath. We worry more about the politics of pandemics. This pandemic which seems to slip through here and there. We cannot see it, cannot feel it until we are sick with it. We want everything to go back to "the way it was." Nostalgia, the romance of the past, lures us. But the past is the past. I assure you, Christmas will happen, just as it did in prior pandemics. Christmas will happen just as it did in World Wars and in Civil Wars. The cultural trappings of Christmas, even the joyful ones amongst Montana Episcopalians, are not what make Christmas happens. To quote a wise prophet, "What if Christmas [] doesn't come from a store. What if Christmas...perhaps...means a little bit more!" "Christmas Day will always be just as long as we have we."

Have a Blessed Advent and a Merry Christmas!

Bishop Marty

Collection Baskets

Helena Food Share is now accepting food donations, including fresh produce from our gardens. Feel free to drop non-perishables by the church, (the red wagon is in the back of the church) and fresh produce to the food share store (1616 Lewis St.).

Marsha extends the Placer Pantry's thanks for donations left in the basket in the Narthex. The need for personal card items continues. Please remember those who are helped as you shop.

God's Love is accepting donations of travel size and regular size items, primarily personal hygiene items. That basket is located in the Narthex.

Episcopal Relief and Development continues to offer "Gifts for Life" - an opportunity for us to "Transform a life, give a gift with lasting impact." You can donate whatever amount you choose in a variety of categories such as clean water, moms and children, animals for food and milk, etc. and you may gift it in honor of someone (who will be notified of your gift). For many of us who really do not need or want more "stuff," this is a perfect way to benefit others in someone's name. Please consider such a donation. The website is www.episcopalrelief.org.

Adult Sunday School is Back!

You are invited to re-engage the adult Sunday School program at St. Peter's each Sunday between 9:15 - 10:00. There are two ways to do so. For those who are attending in person, we invite you to come to the Undercroft which will be set up to accommodate a COVID safe gathering. You may also choose to attend virtually via Zoom. There is a button on our Electronic Attendance page for this purpose.

Each Sunday we will start with the lectionary passages for the day and see where God leads our conversation. It is always a wonderful time to hear God's Word more deeply and then apply it to our lives in our time.

In the weeks and months ahead, we will be adding an adult option of Living the Good News as another path for Sunday Christian formation. We hope you will consider one of these opportunities for your faith journey.

Seasonal Changes for Sunday Worship

When we are able to once again gather in person: Now that we have arrived to winter and the weather that comes with, we will be making a couple of changes to our Sunday worship offerings.

Drive Up Communion - Through the winter, for those who are not yet comfortable with in-person worship, you will still be able to come to church after the online service and receive communion. Weather permitting, we will come to your card; otherwise you will need to park and come in to receive in the Narthex.

Communion Distribution for In-Person Worshipers - During the winter months we will ask worshippers to remain in their pews where they are properly distanced and communion will be brought to you. Then we will consume together followed by the Post-Communion Prayer, blessing, and dismissal.

FAMILY PROMISE

Family Promise continues to assist families with the help of you at St. Peter's Cathedral, our partner church the Cathedral of St. Helena, Carroll College, and 11 other faith communities in Helena and East Helena. Recently, Jeremy & Sydney with their kids McKenna and baby Blayne moved to their new apartment and Ashley & toddler Mya moved into their new place. There are two families in the program now, using the Day Center for meals and day activities when they are not at work and sleeping at First Christian Church every night.

Thank you for all the baby shower gifts you gave to Blayne and for the graduation presents for the parents!!! And thank you for your prayers for the families and staff of Family Promise.

Undoubtedly, there will be a new family or families joining the program soon. The need in the community is especially great during the pandemic. The efforts of Family Promise and its volunteers help to keep the families safe and on the road to sustainable independence.

Stewardship

As we look with hope and excitement to the coming year, we hope that you will take time to prayerfully consider how you and your family might embrace all that God is planning for, and through, St. Peter's Cathedral. You should have received your 2021 Pledge Card. We hope that you will return it promptly so we can move ahead in responding to God's call to us all.

For further information, we invite you to visit our new "Stewardship" page on our website (shown below). You will find it under the "About Us" tab on our home page. Thank you all for your commitment to and generosity for our mission and ministry together!
